BEFORE BREAKFAST.

Attorney George Horn, deserves to be preserved as a unique specimen of the human race. He is probably the only man, not only in this city but in the United States, who is willing to frankly admit that he doesn't believe he would make much of a newspaper man, not being acquainted with the business. Either Mr. Horn is concealing his real sentiments in this matter, or else he is exceptional in his modesty, for certainly he is the only man on record who isn't confident that he could run a newspaper better than the editor succeeds in the attempt.

Mr. John Zeldner, formerly of this city, now of St. Joseph, Mo., who was called here by his mother's death, stated yesterday that the improvement in the times has been phenomenal in the west. "One year ago," he said, "the farmers were selling wheat for 37 cents, now they are getting from 75 to 80 cents a bushel. Corn then sold for 11 cents, now it brings 20, with other produce increasing in like proportion. The crops are also much larger than last year. Mr. Zeldner is in the real estate business, which he says is showing the result of better times.

CONVENTION BEGINS TODAY.

Homeopaths of the State Will Gather in This City.
Between a hundred and fifty and two hundred physicians, many of them accompanied by their wives, will reach here today to attend the thirty-third session of the Homeopathic Medical society of the State of Pennsylvania. The meetings, which will be held in the assembly room of the board of trade, will begin this morning and continue until Thursday afternoon, when the Homeopathic Medical society will give the visiting members and their wives a trip over the Delaware and Hudson gravity road.
Several social affairs have been arranged, one of considerable extent. This morning the ladies will be taken on a trolley ride. This evening a social will be followed by a smoker in the board of trade assembly room and an informal reception to visiting ladies at the home of Dr. F. D. Brewster, 330 North Washington avenue. Tomorrow afternoon a carriage ride over the Elmhurst boulevard has been arranged for the visiting ladies.
Tomorrow evening a general reception, for which invitations have been issued to prominent Scranton men and women, will be held at the Scranton Bicycle club house. At this gathering it is probable that the Scranton homeopathic hospital idea will be given a forward movement through impromptu talks by several of the state's best known physicians of the homeopathic school.
A bicycle run for those of the visiting ladies who are wheelwomen will take place Thursday morning.
The programme for the many sessions of the state society is an exhaustive one and provides for a vast number of addresses, papers and discussions upon medical and surgical topics. The officers and seven committees of the local society have for several weeks been planning for the gathering, which promises to be the most largely attended and beneficial in the society's history.
At this morning's opening session Rev. Dr. C. M. Gillin, of Elm Park church, will offer prayer and addresses and will be made by Dr. H. B. Ware and Colonel H. E. Bojes.
A half hundred visiting members, many accompanied by their wives, arrived here last night from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh and are stopping at the Hotel Jermyn.

LABOR, CAPITAL AND THE TARIFF

Combined Topic Discussed at Board of Trade Meeting.

GENERAL WILLEY GIVES HIS VIEWS

He Contends That Home Capital Has Competition Equivalent to That of Home Labor—Advocates a Tariff Equal to at Least the Difference Between Home and Foreign Labor and Declares That Capital's Profits Are Decreasing and That Labor's Earning Power Increasing.
An unusually large gathering of board of trade members last night heard Hon. Freeman O. Willey, of Orange, N. J., discuss the tariff and the relations of labor and capital. Mr. Willey occupied about three-quarters of an hour, during which time he treated the subject in such a gifted manner both in his language and in fund of general information that all his hearers were deeply impressed and whether they agreed with him or not, were anxious later to compliment him upon his address.
Francis B. Thurber, of New York city, a prominent member of its Chamber of Commerce and who is well-known to Scranton board of trade members, accompanied Mr. Willey here, an occurrence not anticipated by the board officers. Mr. Thurber was granted the privilege of making an address after Mr. Willey had concluded and improved the opportunity by a request that the latter's book, "The Laborer and the Capitalist," be generally read by board members. Mr. Thurber's suggestion that a committee be appointed to co-operate with the publishers in the wider circulation of the book, was not acted upon.
Mr. Willey advocated a high tariff, one that represented at least the difference between the cost of domestic and foreign labor. The most salient points in his address were that a high tariff, while artificial, was necessary to protect the home laborer from the less useful and expedient; that while home labor has to compete with foreign labor, home capital has to compete with foreign capital; that labor and capital accompany each other and what benefits the one benefits the other.
THEY ARE INSEPARABLE.
Trade and commerce and religion, Mr. Willey contended, are inseparable and God-given. A different view is indicated, he said, in recent utterances of Eugene V. Debs and Samuel Gompers, who believe they are right in their warning and that American liberty is being sacrificed to the cause of commerce. Mr. Willey admitted, but only in the sense that highways are artificial and interrupt the primitive methods of commerce—but they are none the less useful. We sometimes find it necessary to dam the tide and turn the river from its course.
In ascertaining why prices are so much higher here than in the eastern countries, so glad to sell their goods in our higher priced markets, it is found that the cost of labor is higher here. It is unchristian to force a foreigner to ask for access to his goods. There should be a duty levied amounting to at least the difference in the price of labor. Does protection protect capital and not labor? That is a question answered affirmatively by the speaker. It is answered by the truth that where capital goes, and vice-versa, "Thank you," queried Mr. Willey, "that Scranton capitalists would loan their money at the present low rate of interest if they could get more out of it by investing in manufacturing enterprises."

AN UNFAIR ADVANTAGE.

Price, the great English economist, refused to sign the petition of the Queen's tariff investigating commission because he believed a protective tariff gave an unfair and unreasonable advantage to labor, though the famed economist was in the minority on the committee. Figures show that the products of capital are thirty per cent. less than twenty-five years ago and the earning power of labor fifty per cent. more.
"A better knowledge is needed to better understand and I want you to be well informed. When you understand, you will know that what I advocate is as good for the laborer as the capitalist, if anything better for the former than the latter. I'm for the former every time, to be frank with you. I want wages higher; I want sweat shops abolished. The more we struggle descending the dark valley, the more we will enjoy ascending the hillside."
Preceding Mr. Willey's address the board held a brief business session. C. V. Fulton and Grant Pelton were elected to membership.
Sol Goldsmith, the special committee man, who went to Harrisburg and with seventy-five other business men from commercial bodies conferred with Governor Hastings regarding the mercantile tax bill, submitted a written report. The bill was declared to be a blow at a few of the big Philadelphia department stores, crude, impractical and unjust, and Governor Hastings was so advised. The result was his veto of the bill.
The resignations of L. T. Mattes and D. P. Repligie were accepted. Notice was received of the coming annual meeting of the National board of trade at Washington, Dec. 14. The election of delegates was deferred until a future meeting.

THE TRANSPORTATION COMMITTEE AT THE SUGGESTION OF C. H. POND.

The transportation committee at the suggestion of C. H. Pond, has elected a western freight rate on fourth-class goods which was twenty-nine cents from Scranton and but twenty-five cents from Albany, thirty-one miles from Buffalo. Albany is in an individual freight group, while Scranton is not. His motion that the matter be referred to the transportation committee was adopted.
DEAL NEARLY CLOSED.
Brewery Syndicate May Be a Certainty Very Soon.
A report that was not confirmed last night was to the effect that the twelve brewery firms in this region would consummate their syndicate deal this week.
Scranton has been announced as the proposed headquarters and main office, and the following for the officers of the syndicate: President, William T. Kelly, of Casey & Kelly, Scranton; vice-president, Joseph Hughes, Hughes & Glennon, Pittston; secretary, Mr. Weaver, Weaver & Reickel, Wilkes-Barre; treasurer, Charles Robinson, of E. Robinson's Sons, Scranton.
It is stated that Stegmaier, the Wilkes-Barre brewer, is not in the deal, his demand for a $2,000,000 valuation of his plant having been refused. The syndicate's financial plan is one-third cash, one-third issue of preferred stock and one-third common stock.

MISS VERNON'S LECTURE.

She Spoke About Pastry in St. Luke's Parish Rooms—It Was the First of the Series.
Miss Vernon gave the first lesson in her series on cookery yesterday, in St. Luke's parish rooms, with a creditable attendance. The subject presented. It is possible that after today the lessons will be in the afternoon if it is so desired by the majority. Her method of demonstrative a cooking lecture is admirable and the course should be well patronized not only for its own worth but for the benefit of the girls' Friendly Society.
Today's lesson will be on "Bread in all forms." No single tickets have been provided but admission to lecture may be obtained for twenty-five cents. Yesterday's lesson was on "Pastry" and the following recipes were given:
Puff Paste—Two cups flour, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar, white of one egg, one-half cup ice water, small piece of butter, size of nickery nut. Work all together with thumb and two fingers. Wash one-half pound butter in ice water (one-half pound butter is one cup full), spread butter in thin sheets, ably it after each use. Roll out and spread on board and knead as bread for a few moments; divide in half, roll each in their sheet; wipe butter and place on one sheet other sheet on top, fold and roll eight times. Roll out on board. Roll dough may be rolled thin for pates and cheese fingers.
For Pates—Cut three pieces for each pate; cut center out two inches for cover of pate; brush each edge with white of egg; put together, let stand on ice till ready to bake.
Cheese Fingers—Cut in strips; brush each strip with white of egg; on each one lay grated cheese; press together so as to keep cheese together; bake on board; put away on ice; roll six times and put away then on ice. Now ready for use.
Vol-au-Vent—Roll one-half inch thick; turn basin upside down and cut around and through; turn other side up and manage with care; place on an oiled board. When baked, cut this where it is marked and remove center; take small piece for lid; remove all paste inside. This you fill with creamed oysters, chicken, lobster, anything same as pates.
Plain Paste—Three cups flour, one teaspoon salt, one cup shortening (lard, butter or cottonseed). One-half teaspoon cottoleone (very good). Cut shortening into flour, add one cupful, more or less, of water, and mix together with fingers (than others). Add water little at a time; turn out on board and roll; roll and fold three times. When ready to use roll in flour.
For Custard, put rim of paste—Brush paste with white of egg to cement and keep juices in; do not touch outer edge with finger. Bake in hot water when baked separately; fill crust with apples; sprinkle four tablespoons sugar; bake in tender.
Custard—One cupful milk; let boil, double boiler; mix yolks of two eggs; two tablespoons sugar, one-half tablespoon corn starch; add to boiling milk. Pour hot milk into sugar and eggs, when they will curdle; put back in boiler stir till thickens. When apples and crust are ready, fill with custard.
Meringue—Beat whites of eggs very stiff; add two tablespoons granulated sugar; put on pile in spoonfuls and brown.
Raglets—One-half cup water, two tablespoons butter; put in saucepan; when water boils and butter melts add one-half cup flour; stir till smooth; add two eggs, one at a time, beat thoroughly before adding other egg.
Creme au Buffe—Put small spoonfuls in pan and bake till light for Puffs.
Mix one-half cupful of granulated sugar, one teaspoon cinnamon; put butter in bag with tube in one corner; cut the corner out so tube can project; squeeze batter through tube in hot deep fat; should be smoking. As you take them out drop in sugar and cinnamon. Ready to eat.

TENTH ANNUAL REUNION THURSDAY

Survivors of the Fifty-second Regiment Will Meet in This City.

COL. DODGE WILL BE PRESENT

Commanded the Regiment During the War and This Will Be His First Meeting with the Boys Since Its Close—The Business Meeting of the Regiment Will Be Held in Music Hall, Followed by Banquet and Camp Fire.
Thursday the annual reunion of the survivors of the Fifty-second regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteers will be held in this city. It will be an unusually interesting event from the fact that Colonel John C. Dodge, of Dodge-

HAS A FINE RECORD.

Colonel John C. Dodge was the first commander of the Fifty-second regiment, formerly known as the Luzerne regiment, from the fact that it was raised principally in the Lackawanna and Wyoming valleys. This regiment made a splendid record during the War of the Rebellion, both under McClellan on the Peninsula, and later at Charleston, S. C.
The colonel has written the committee of arrangements that he will surely meet with the survivors of his old regiment at their tenth reunion, Thursday, and as this will be the first meeting since the war of the colonel and those who are left of the boys who marched and fought under him during those perilous times, he will undoubtedly have a royal welcome when he comes.
We append here a correct list of the survivors of the regiment now residents of Scranton, that has been handed us by William McClave, chairman of the committee of arrangements:

MISS VERNON'S LECTURE.

She Spoke About Pastry in St. Luke's Parish Rooms—It Was the First of the Series.
Miss Vernon gave the first lesson in her series on cookery yesterday, in St. Luke's parish rooms, with a creditable attendance. The subject presented. It is possible that after today the lessons will be in the afternoon if it is so desired by the majority. Her method of demonstrative a cooking lecture is admirable and the course should be well patronized not only for its own worth but for the benefit of the girls' Friendly Society.
Today's lesson will be on "Bread in all forms." No single tickets have been provided but admission to lecture may be obtained for twenty-five cents. Yesterday's lesson was on "Pastry" and the following recipes were given:
Puff Paste—Two cups flour, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar, white of one egg, one-half cup ice water, small piece of butter, size of nickery nut. Work all together with thumb and two fingers. Wash one-half pound butter in ice water (one-half pound butter is one cup full), spread butter in thin sheets, ably it after each use. Roll out and spread on board and knead as bread for a few moments; divide in half, roll each in their sheet; wipe butter and place on one sheet other sheet on top, fold and roll eight times. Roll out on board. Roll dough may be rolled thin for pates and cheese fingers.
For Pates—Cut three pieces for each pate; cut center out two inches for cover of pate; brush each edge with white of egg; put together, let stand on ice till ready to bake.
Cheese Fingers—Cut in strips; brush each strip with white of egg; on each one lay grated cheese; press together so as to keep cheese together; bake on board; put away on ice; roll six times and put away then on ice. Now ready for use.
Vol-au-Vent—Roll one-half inch thick; turn basin upside down and cut around and through; turn other side up and manage with care; place on an oiled board. When baked, cut this where it is marked and remove center; take small piece for lid; remove all paste inside. This you fill with creamed oysters, chicken, lobster, anything same as pates.
Plain Paste—Three cups flour, one teaspoon salt, one cup shortening (lard, butter or cottonseed). One-half teaspoon cottoleone (very good). Cut shortening into flour, add one cupful, more or less, of water, and mix together with fingers (than others). Add water little at a time; turn out on board and roll; roll and fold three times. When ready to use roll in flour.
For Custard, put rim of paste—Brush paste with white of egg to cement and keep juices in; do not touch outer edge with finger. Bake in hot water when baked separately; fill crust with apples; sprinkle four tablespoons sugar; bake in tender.
Custard—One cupful milk; let boil, double boiler; mix yolks of two eggs; two tablespoons sugar, one-half tablespoon corn starch; add to boiling milk. Pour hot milk into sugar and eggs, when they will curdle; put back in boiler stir till thickens. When apples and crust are ready, fill with custard.
Meringue—Beat whites of eggs very stiff; add two tablespoons granulated sugar; put on pile in spoonfuls and brown.
Raglets—One-half cup water, two tablespoons butter; put in saucepan; when water boils and butter melts add one-half cup flour; stir till smooth; add two eggs, one at a time, beat thoroughly before adding other egg.
Creme au Buffe—Put small spoonfuls in pan and bake till light for Puffs.
Mix one-half cupful of granulated sugar, one teaspoon cinnamon; put butter in bag with tube in one corner; cut the corner out so tube can project; squeeze batter through tube in hot deep fat; should be smoking. As you take them out drop in sugar and cinnamon. Ready to eat.
